Governor Baker Appoints MEMA Board Member Charlie Uglietto to Commission on Clean Heat

Massachusetts Governor Charlie Baker, who has announced he will not be seeking re-election next year, has appointed Charlie Uglietto, Cubby Oil & Energy, to the state's Commission on Clean Heat. Baker established the Commission by Executive Order back in September. The Commission, the first-of-its-kind in the United States, will establish a framework for a long-term decline in emissions from heating fuels.

In a letter to Charlie, who serves on MEMA's Board of Directors and is the former Board Chairman for the National Oilheat Research Alliance, Baker wrote, "Lieutenant Governor Polito and I appreciate your willingness to serve the Commonwealth in this capacity. Congratulations on your appointment and best wishes for success."

"I am most pleased to have been chosen to represent our industry on the Commission," said Charlie. "I will do everything in my power to advocate for our industry and demonstrate that we are a willing partner in reducing carbon emissions in Massachusetts with renewable Bioheat, and that we offer a more sensible, cost-effective solution to battle climate change versus electrification," he said.
